Master the motion to send flipoflip® into a dance.

Thank you for purchasing flipoflip®! Here you will find essential information that will be useful to know when you start using it.

1. It is crucial that you use flipoflip® on flat, solid, and smooth surfaces.

You can try it out on various surfaces, and you'll see that it performs well on most of the regular flat surfaces, but there are some exceptions. fipoflip® will not perform well on uneven, textured, soft, or loose surfaces. Also, always remember to ensure that the surface is clean from dust or any other potential "bumps."

2. There is a little learning curve when using flipoflip®

It's simple, yet well thought of form hides captivating characteristics that are revealed by mastering the right motion and tense of pushing or pulling the object. We have covered and explained that flipoflip® is a skill toy, and it requires a little practice to achieve the continuous flipping motion.

Because all good things come with practice :)

3. The very first practice.

To begin practicing with the flipoflip®, first, choose a solid and flat surface. Place the toy on its side edge on your table or another flat surface. Hold the toy with your finger perpendicular to the surface and push it without using much force.

The secret is learning the right movement and the power of the tip - sometimes a gentle tip wins over an intensive push and gives the most flips. A little experience, and you will get the hang of it. We have also noticed that some users will launch differently from others but have the same success so you should find the best way that works for you. Experiment with various ways to tip, and you will find your perfect way of launching.

When the flipping motion is achieved, you can try to level up your skill with the next steps, such as catching the toy during the motion.

By practice, you will achieve better and better results, and that is an excellent time to get creative and explore new tricks. We have created a special page called "Tricks" for that, so once you feel comfortable with the flipoflip® you are welcome to check it out to challenge yourself or friends.
